

Contents

Executive summary	xvii
About the authors	xix
Introduction	3
By Olga V. Mack, fellow at CodeX, The Stanford Center for Legal Informatics, and Generative AI Editor at law.MIT Computational Law Report, Humira Noorestani, visionary founder, DigiCounsel, and MbaMemme Onwudiwe, EVP legal and business intelligence, Evisort
The LegalOps 2.0 Framework	5
LegalOps 2.0 Framework – the ISSUe model	6
Diving deeper into the ISSUe Model	8
1. Identify	9
2. Structure	11
3. Shape	13
4. Utilize effectively	15
LegalOps 2.0 Approach to law firms and corporate legal departments	16
Applying ISSUe to the CLOC core competencies	18
Three additional focus areas of LegalOps 2.0	22
Our mission	23
PART ONE: TECHNOLOGY	27
Introduction	29
By Paul Levy, senior consultant, Jameson Legal Tech

Chapter 1: Automation in legal departments	33
By Tara Emory, senior vice president of legal AI strategy, Wilzette Louis, director of client solutions, and Adam Poeppelmeier, director of e-discovery at Redgrave Data, and Kassi Burns, senior attorney at King & Spalding, LLP
Introduction	33
Automating administrative functions	35
Automation of legal research tasks	38
Automation of document drafting	38
Automation of e-discovery tasks	40
Automated e-discovery processes	40
Automation of reporting	43
Challenges and risks of automated systems	45
Conclusion	47
Chapter 2: Revolutionizing legal operations with GPT – the power of AI in the legal industry	49
By Tom Dunlop, founder and CEO, Summize
Automation in legal operations	49
Getting rid of “legal jargon”	50
Enhanced research capabilities	50
More accurate decision-making	51
Increased accessibility	51
Generative AI and the future of legal operations	51
Will Gen AI replace humans?	52
Legal operations and Gen AI – the future is bright	52
Chapter 3: Leveraging AI and data in financial management for legal operations leaders	55
By Jake Sussman, chief operating and product officer, Evisort
Introduction	55
Utilizing e-billing tools for enhanced invoice management	56
Contracts as data – a paradigm shift in financial management	57
Chapter 4: The Sherlock Holmes of legal operations – using business intelligence for law firm efficiency	61
By Nipun K. Bhatia, CEO, Legal League Consulting
Business intelligence – the skill of extracting value from complexity	61

Unlocking the power of resource allocation	62
The ally of efficiency – achieving more with less	63
A radar that helps you detect and respond to risks and opportunities	63
Transforming operations from reactive to proactive	64
Business intelligence for intelligent business – dial P for Profitability!	65
Keep your friends close, your competitors closer	65
The powerful AI-BI combination – a match made in heaven?	66
Conclusion	67
Chapter 5: AI and privacy – balancing technological potential and protection of personal data	69
By Monika Kwiatkowska, senior commercial counsel, Zscaler, Inc., and Humira Noorestani, visionary founder, DigiCounsel
Safeguarding	72
Compatibility	73
Use it wisely	74
Consider liabilities	75
Next steps	75
Chapter 6: The Brazilian Supreme Court’s AI-driven journey to a 100 percent digital judiciary system	77
By Caroline Francescato, lawyer, founder of LinkLei, and professor of law and technology
Introduction	77
The use of artificial intelligence in the Brazilian justice system	78
Incorporating artificial intelligence in the courts	80
Artificial intelligence and Brazilian law firms	84
Final considerations	86
Chapter 7: Technical debt – the hidden cost of law firms’ digital transformation journey	89
By John Lindsey, InCite LegalTech
The concept of technical debt	89
Law firm applicability	89
Procrastination	90
Metrics for measuring technical debt	92
Strategies for managing technical debt	92
Conclusion	92

Chapter 8: Powered by AI – shaping tomorrow’s workforce	95
By Natalie Pierce, partner, and Stephanie Goutos, practice innovation attorney, Gunderson Dettmer
AI uses for employers	95
Potential concerns and responsible implementation	99
Equipping the workforce for a future with AI	100
Chapter 9: Using AI and data to support vendor management	109
By Amine Anoun, chief technology officer, Evisort
Collecting and centralizing a single source of truth
vendor agreements	109
Leveraging AI software tools and resultant data to reduce costs	110
Negotiate better and faster with vendors moving forward	111
Conclusion	112
Chapter 10: Understanding the relationship between legal operations and legal technology	113
By Colin S. Levy, legal tech author, speaker, and director of legal for Malbek
Technological integration and automation	113
Standardization of legal processes	114
Data-driven decision-making	114
Enhancing collaboration and communication	115
Defining legal operations and legal technology	115
Enhancing process improvement	115
Boosting legal research	116
Enhancing data and matter management	116
Optimizing e-discovery	117
Strengthening contract management	117
Chapter 11: One general counsel, two federal investigations, and an absence of legal technology	119
By Tara Trantham, RISE Legal
The story	119
The plot twist	120
How the story could have gone	121
The lesson	123

Chapter 12: How legal operations teams should evaluate AI solutions	125
By MbaMemme Onwudiwe, EVP legal and business intelligence, Evisort
Evaluating AI powered tools	126
Steps to evaluate AI and make sure it's not "two eyes"	126
Why is this important?	127
Conclusion	128
Chapter 13: Unlocking the power of KPIs – a guide for law firms	129
By Gary Miles, The Free Lawyer
What are KPIs?	129
Why should a law firm use KPIs?	130
What are possible drawbacks to utilizing KPIs?	131
What are important KPIs to measure?	132
What is the process for utilizing KPIs in the law firm?	133
Conclusion	134
Chapter 14: The importance of metrics in legal operations	135
By Sana Virani, contract consultant
Introduction	135
Matter management and internal workload metrics	135
External counsel evaluation metrics	136
Metrics around litigation avoidance	137
Turnaround time	138
Conclusion	139
PART TWO: PROCESS	141
Introduction	143
By Tanisha Minev, legal counsel, Yoco, and Humira Noorestani, visionary founder, DigiCounsel
Chapter 1: LegalOps 2.0 and the CLOC Core 12 – the "Identify" stage through integrating clients into legal teams	145
By Fatima M. Bolyea, Taft Stettinius & Hollister LLP
Objective #1: Obtain knowledge (LegalOps 2.0 – "Identify" phase) ...	146
Objective #2: Preserve knowledge	146

Objective #3: Retain and analyze knowledge (LegalOps 2.0 – “Structure” and “Shape” phases)	146
Best practice #1: A successful first meeting with your client	147
Best practice #2: A comprehensive timeline and supporting documents	150
Best practice #3: Your internal review of the clients’ documents	154
Best practice #4: Ongoing client involvement during motion practice and discovery	154
Best practice #5: Integrating your client into trial preparation	156
Conclusion	156
 Chapter 2: Shred those documents (periodically, systematically, objectively, defensibly, legally, and ethically)!	 159
By Jeff Cunningham, law firm general counsel, MGC Law
Record retention basics	159
RRP logistics	161
Conclusion	163
 Chapter 3: Litigation management and the six Ps	 165
By Brewster Rawls, Rawls Law Group
Lessons to live by	165
 Chapter 4: Model retention guidelines for external counsel – best practices for successful law firm relationships	 169
By Son Tran, chief legal advisor, TTC Group
Setting budgets	169
Contact for relationship	170
Billing requirements	170
Litigation/early case assessment	171
Consider alternative dispute resolution early and often	171
Alternative fee arrangements	171
Conclusion	174
 Chapter 5: Winning at the new game – a blueprint for business strategies for law firms in the post-pandemic era	 175
By Yavanika Shah, legal business specialist, IndusLaw
What has changed in the post-pandemic era?	175
Meeting clients’ expectations	176
Remote work vs work from office	177

Embracing technology	177
Focus on client experience	178
Prioritize diversity and inclusion	178
Alternative fee arrangements (AFAs)	179
Crisis management plan	179
A blueprint for change – case studies of successful law firms in the business	180
Summary	181
Chapter 6: The art of vendor management for legal operations	183
By Navin Mahavijayan, head of legal operations, Modernizing Medicine
Vendor and supplier selection	183
Vendor contract intake	184
Reviewing and negotiating contracts	185
Renewing contracts	186
Conclusion	187
Chapter 7: A gigabyte of work – information governance in a world of data	189
By Dan Cotter, member, Dickinson Wright PLLC
Inventory, inventory, inventory	189
Know where the data skeletons are buried	190
Know what type of information is in the inventory	190
Survey the field of workers	192
Develop or revise the policies	192
Litigation holds	192
Staging up an information management program	192
Remember, compliance is all about the PEOPLE	193
Chapter 8: Contracts management planning – how to optimize processes and lift your organization	195
By Olga V. Mack, fellow, CodeX, The Stanford Center for Legal Informatics, and Generative AI editor, law.MIT
What is contract management planning?	197
Traveling the CMP path in four steps	197
Step 1: Set your contract management planning goals and strategies	198
Step 2: Articulate the value of CLM technology	200
Step 3: Assemble your contract management planning team	201

Step 4: Identify your contract management plan’s KPIs	203
Planning is prevailing	204
Chapter 9: Recipe for success – how legal knowledge management drives business forward	207
By Jenna Sanz-Agero, of counsel, Business Affairs, Inc., and advisory board member, xMentium, Inc.
Identification and capture of relevant knowledge that is ongoing, preferably automated, and scalable	208
Organization and storage of knowledge so that it is easily accessible	209
Distribution and sharing of knowledge	209
Use and application of knowledge to improve business processes and decision making	210
Continual assessment and improvement of the knowledge management system	210
Tying KM to core legal operations competencies	211
Chapter 10: A beginner’s guide for in-house legal counsel navigating legal operations	215
By Tanisha Minev, legal counsel, Yoco
What is legal operations, really?	216
Pillar one: Organization and elimination of waste	217
Pillar two: Reducing costs	222
Motivating for budget for technology	223
Pillar three: Optimizing time	224
The importance of data	224
Chapter 11: Law firms as a business – a modern approach	227
By Owen McGrann, resident troublemaker, McGrannLAW LLC
The economics of the billable hour	227
Trusted advisors and intellectual capital	229
Does this sound uncomfortably close to how “normal” businesses are run?	230
Chapter 12: The impact of a strategic legal plan on business partnerships	233
By Sara Ajmi, legal operations expert
Introduction	233

In-house legal function and business goals – the perfect mismatch	233
The importance of a strategic plan for in-house legal departments	234
Seizing the opportunity – a call for strategic clarity	235
Conclusion	236
Chapter 13: All for one and one for all – how to win M&A battles in private practice and in-house environments	237
By Ruslan Sulaimanov, Abu Dhabi National Oil Company Group
Introduction	237
Cross-functional alignment – a symphony in motion	238
Fortifying unity with technology and artificial intelligence	242
Conclusion	242
Chapter 14: Unlocking legal operations’ digital transformation through ALSPs	245
By Maryam Salehijam, PhD, client account executive, Axiom Law
ALSPs vs law firms	246
Advantages of ALSPs for legal operations	247
Unlocking enhanced efficiency and flexibility	247
Conclusion	248
Chapter 15: Building IP processes for multinational corporations and start-ups	251
By Chitra Sahay, legal manager, Barcode Entertainment
Suggested multinational corporations IP processes	252
Suggested start-up IP processes	253
Relevance of intellectual property	254
Why companies should safeguard their creative production	255
Conclusion	256

PART THREE: PEOPLE	257
Introduction	259
By Laura Jeffords Greenberg, senior legal director, Worksome and AI consultant at LEGIT
Communication	260
Innovation	260
Education	260
Inclusion	260
Chapter 1: How legal turns business teams into LegalTech champions	263
By Chad About, founder and principal, Chad About Consulting
My journey to LegalTech implementation	263
An impactful win that’s not impossible	263
Sourcing potential vendors	264
Evaluating as a team	264
Selecting the LegalTech provider	265
Planning implementation	265
Testing the work	266
Launching Version 1	266
Refining (forever)	267
Conclusion	267
Chapter 2: The modern legal department – cultivating an AI-ready mindset	269
By Suzi Hixon, trademark attorney
The importance of an AI-ready mindset	269
Understanding AI’s (current) capabilities and limitations	270
Embracing the unknown and fostering a culture of innovation	270
Learning from failure	271
Enhancing efficiency	271
Banishing burnout and achieving work–life balance with AI-driven solutions	273
Automating routine tasks	274
Improving time management and prioritization	274
Enabling flexible working arrangements	274
Fostering a culture of continuous learning and innovation	274
Conclusion	274

Chapter 3: The vital role of the legal operations function in utilizing DEI data analytics 277

By Flo Nicolas, founder and chief innovation and data strategist, Get Tech Smart

 The legal diversity challenges 278

 Diversity beyond race and gender 279

 Understanding employee sentiment through data analytics 281

 Breaking barriers – gender pay equity and promotions data 282

 Leveraging data analytics for job applications, vendor contracts, and exit interviews 283

 Data-driven monitoring – job applications, supplier bids, and hiring processes 285

 Legal operations’ impact on contract language inclusivity 287

 Mitigating litigation risks with DEI data analytics 287

 From data to action – leveraging DEI insights to make meaningful change 288

Chapter 4: Ten questions a legal team should ask itself if it is serious about diversity, equity, and inclusion 291

By Niti Nadarajah, freelance general counsel, empowerment coach, and DEI consultant

 QUESTION 1: Where does responsibility for DEI lie within the organization? 292

 QUESTION 2: What do we do to demonstrate our commitment to DEI internally? 292

 QUESTION 3: What can we learn by examining the similarities and/or differences between team members, including new hires? 293

 QUESTION 4: Who does our culture support and who does it disadvantage? 295

 QUESTION 5: Do our actions demonstrate that we take accountability seriously across our organization? 295

 QUESTION 6: How psychologically safe do people feel within the team? 296

 QUESTION 7: How do we ensure we hear everyone’s voice and opinions? 297

 QUESTION 8: What criteria do we use for assessing talent and progression? 298

QUESTION 9: Are there any patterns in our employee turnover data that indicate more can be done to support our people? 298

QUESTION 10: What actions do we take to support DEI within the legal profession and society as a whole? 299

Chapter 5: Practical tips to create inclusive legal teams 301
By Cathy Nestrick, American Bankers Association

 What is inclusion? 301

 Benefits to inclusion 302

 Strategies to foster inclusive practices 303

 Summary 305

Chapter 6: From dinosaur to data(connoi)sseur – how to harness data to achieve favorable litigation outcomes 307
By Shari E. Belitz, chief executive officer, Shari Belitz Communications LLC

 History 307

 Changing times 307

 A new direction 308

 Conclusion 310

Chapter 7: Dance of the data dragons – e-discovery for legal operators 311
By Cat Casey, chief growth officer, Reveal Brainspace

 What is e-discovery and why should legal operations professionals care? 311

 The dancers 312

 Vanquishing e-discovery foes 312

 Data sources more and varied than the seven kingdoms 312

 The dual-headed dragon of privacy and data security 313

 More costly than a loan from the Iron Bank 313

 Legal operators – an e-discovery knight in shining armor 313

 Forging powerful alliances 313

 Becoming an e-discovery maester for your company 314

 E-discovery as legal operations’ moment in the sun 314

 Winter is coming – be prepared 315

Chapter 8: Legal party of one	317
By Elina Cohen, general counsel, QuickNode
Be a friend	317
Draw the line	318
Chapter 9: A learning curve – the training, development, and education of legal technology and legal operations	321
By Harry Borovick, general counsel at Luminance, external lecturer at Queen Mary University London, and visiting lecturer at the University of Law
Why do lawyers learn, and why does what lawyers learn matter?	321
How do lawyers learn?	322
How and what will lawyers learn?	324
Practical steps to improve legal education	325
What’s next for legal education?	326
Chapter 10: The importance of simple, easy, and effective communications in legal operations	329
By Jeffery A. Kruse, founder, Key Legal Operations Consulting LLC (KLOC)
Clear communications are the keys to success	329
SEE communications can help legal operations teams	329
SEE communications can be a useful guide for legal operations teams	332
Chapter 11: Why lawyers should not be doing your project management	333
By Amr Jayousi, senior associate, Sanchez & Amador LLP
A lawyer’s biggest asset is in his/her lawyering	333
Lawyers are not trained in project management	334
Most legal operations projects do not need a lawyer	335
Most legal departments have too many lawyers	336
Most legal departments have too few legal operations professionals	336
Conclusion	337

Chapter 12: Unlocking your legal team’s potential – the role of legal operations in training and development	339
By Robert Hanna, founder and managing director, KC Partners
Resources for new hires	339
Existing employees	340
Attracting new talent	341
People, process, and technology	342
Chapter 13: Leveraging your personal brand online to match your reputation offline	343
By Viveca Hess, HessConnect
How do you build that brand – your digital twin?	343
Personal branding defined	344
Self-discovery and assessment	344
Defining your niche and target audience	345
Crafting your consistent and compelling online profile and presence	346
Networking and building relationships	347
Conclusion	348
Chapter 14: The power of authenticity in law	349
By Hannah Beko, head of mission, Legal Studio
What is authenticity?	351
How can we become more authentic in our everyday working life?	351
Chapter 15: Asynchronous communication and AI – a powerful duo to supercharge performance	355
By Laura Jeffords Greenberg, senior legal director, Worksome and AI consultant at LEGIT
Understanding asynchronous and synchronous communication	356
Superpower legal operations with asynchronous communication and AI	358
Practical steps and best practices	362
About Globe Law and Business	367

About the editors

Olga V. Mack is an accomplished entrepreneur, executive, and attorney dedicated to harnessing transformative technologies for positive change in law. Serving as a lecturer at Berkeley Law, fellow at CodeX, The Stanford Center for Legal Informatics, and Generative AI editor at law.MIT Computational Law Report, Olga is a strong advocate for the integration of innovative technologies that enhance functionality and accessibility. With a proven track record as an award-winning general counsel, CEO, and tech start-up advisor, Olga encourages the adoption of cutting-edge technologies to drive progress and efficiency. As a seasoned TEDx presenter, Olga leverages her unique blend of expertise in technology and business to inspire and educate audiences. Recognized as a top speaker and thought leader, she shares her insights through various platforms, including Forbes, Bloomberg Law, law.MIT Computational Law Report, Newsweek, Venture Beat, law.com, Above the Law, and ACC Docket. Her accomplishments include being honored with prestigious awards such as Silicon Valley Women of Influence, ABA Women in Legal Tech, Make Your Mark, Corporate Counsel of the Year, and Women Leaders in Technology Law.

Humira Noorestani has cultivated a diverse legal career, predominantly in the in-house sector, spanning various industries and across borders, such as construction, renewables, retail, and technology. As the visionary founder of DigiCounsel, she spearheads a pioneering platform that equips lawyers worldwide with practical legal skills with a special focus on technology. In parallel, she manages a thriving law firm practice that specializes in corporate and immigration matters. Notably, Humira has earned accolades including a Human Rights Award from the Pennsylvania Bar Association, a prestigious Human Rights Fellowship from the University of Pennsylvania Carey School of Law, a recognition from the College of William and Mary Law for her social justice work, and a Congressional Recognition for her remarkable contributions to the legal field and women's empowerment. Humira publishes and speaks on panels about AI and data privacy. Humira is also a fellow at the American Council on Women Peace and Security.

MbaMemme Onwudiwe is executive vice president, legal and business intelligence, and part of the founding team of the legal AI company Evisort. He helped build Evisort from the Harvard Innovation Lab as a JD student at Harvard Law School (HLS) alongside other HLS students and MIT data scientists in 2017. Memme also founded/chaired Harvard’s Legal Technology Symposium as a student and currently lectures the course “Start-up Entrepreneurship and Innovations in Legal Technology” at Harvard Law School. He now serves on the Advisory board of Innovation Law Club Africa and is an advisor for System.Legal. Memme is also a Space Law expert. His 2021 article “Africa and the Artemis Accords: A Review of Space Regulations and Strategy for African Capacity Building in the New Space Economy” was published in the peer-reviewed Journal on Space Entrepreneurship and Innovation. He has spoken on panels for the National Space Society’s International Space Development Conference, as well as the Summer Workshop on Teaching Space (SWOTS) at the US Military’s Air Command and Staff College, and also serves on the advisory board of the Space Beach Law Lab (SBLL).

About the authors

Chad Aboud is a coach, advisor, and speaker. His mission is to help everyone he can uncover their natural gifts, so they are more successful and fulfilled in their career. Chad has shared his message and tools with individuals and organizations around the world, including Google and on the TEDx stage. He also hosts the “What You’re About” podcast where he interviews inspiring leaders and entrepreneurs who share insights and tips about how to uncover your natural gifts. Chad is a former general counsel of an international portfolio of technology companies where he implemented a CLM to integrate and streamline the contracting process for multiple operating companies. He began his career in a national law firm in Canada where his practice focused on public company financings and mergers and acquisitions.

Sara Ajmi, a legal operations expert based in Canada, brings over five years of in-house practice experience from Morocco to her current role. Passionate about the business aspects of in-house legal, she focuses on understanding and enhancing the structure, management, and operation of legal departments. Beyond her legal operations responsibilities, Sara is dedicated to simplifying access to the legal operations field. She actively creates LinkedIn content, facilitating a seamless transition for others entering the industry.

Amine Anoun is chief technology officer at Evisort, and is based in San Francisco. Prior to Evisort, Anoun served as a data scientist at Uber. Anoun is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and CentraleSupélec, where he holds masters degrees in operations research and in applied mathematics. He was a member of the Forbes 30 Under 30 list in 2019, and was also recognized as one of the Top 100 MIT Alumni in Technology in 2021.

Hannah Beko is a commercial property lawyer and founder of the coaching and training consultancy Authentically Speaking, which supports lawyers with personal and professional skills development. Hannah is a podcast host, a keynote speaker on mental health/wellbeing and the power of authenticity in the legal profession, and is also head of mission at Legal Studio Solicitors where she looks after recruitment, training, and development alongside her co-directors.

Shari Belitz is a nationally recognized litigation consultant, keynote speaker, bestselling author, and chief executive officer of Shari Belitz Communications, LLC, certified by the National Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC). She is also the founder of the educational subscription course, EnPSYCHLAWpedia®. Shari earned her Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, a Juris Doctor, and studied toward a Master of Arts degree in Forensic Psychology, with a concentration in jury research and science. Shari also earned a certificate in Behavioral Economics and Decision Science from Harvard University. Shari conducts mock trials, prepares witnesses for depositions and trials, writes theme development reports for mediation and trial, and performs jury selection and other customized trial services. Shari is an attorney with over 20 years of experience in the legal profession. Prior to her litigation consulting career, she was an accomplished insurance coverage attorney at a law firm and litigation manager in-house at an insurance company where she handled complex mass tort lawsuits for Fortune 500 insured clients.

Nipun K. Bhatia is chief executive officer of Legal League Consulting, India's first management consulting company for the global legal industry. A qualified lawyer, a chartered accountant, a SIMI accredited mediator, and a certified life coach, Nipun has been a pioneer in the area of law firm management. He has assisted leading firms in India and UAE, advising them on partnership structuring, operational aspects of running a successful law firm, strategy/business planning, compensation modelling, conflict resolution, and market positioning. With 15 years of work experience, Nipun acts as a strategic advisor to several managing partners, partners, and individual legal practitioners, guiding them towards venturing into upcoming and niche practice areas, professionalization of business support functions, and bringing automation into management solutions.

Fatima M. Bolyea is an attorney with Taft Stettinius & Hollister LLP in Southfield, Michigan, where she practices complex commercial litigation. In her practice, Fatima represents a wide range of business clientele, with a focus on small businesses, close corporations, family-owned companies, and their owners. She counsels businesses on a range of issues including contentious employment disputes, theft of intellectual property and trade secrets, breach of non-competition and non-solicitation agreements, and shareholder/member disputes. Fatima is a past chair of the Litigation Section of the State Bar of Michigan and is a member of the State Bar's Representative Assembly (the State Bar's policy making body). She serves as treasurer for the Michigan Center for Civic Education. She also serves on the mentorship committee of the Arab American Women's Business Council. Fatima has been named an Up-and-Coming Lawyer by Michigan Lawyers Weekly and is perennially recognized by Michigan Super Lawyers as a rising star in business litigation. In 2022, Fatima was named an Influential Woman of the Law by Michigan Lawyers Weekly.

Harry Borovick is a leading general counsel with experience scaling legal teams in the AI, LegalTech, gaming, and data analytics sectors. Harry currently oversees the global legal and governance functions of Luminance, a leading AI-driven LegalTech. He also works alongside product and technical teams to advise on development and user experience. Having trained at Mishcon de Reya, Harry then worked in a range of regulated technology businesses. He has become a leading voice of in-house lawyers in cross-border data privacy and regulatory governance, including AI governance, focusing on pragmatic commercial strategies. Harry has lectured at various universities and for numerous professional education providers including Queen Mary University London, The University of Law (Bloomsbury), and BARBRI. He also advises the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators' Technology Group and is a regular conference speaker on the subject of practical technological implementation for legal and governance professionals, as well as the future of legal education.

Kassi Burns is a senior attorney at King & Spalding, LLP, based in Texas. Kassi holds a law degree from Tulane Law School, attended the University of Canterbury in New Zealand as a Rotary Ambassadorial Scholar, is a member of the Texas and Arkansas bars, and has multiple legal tech-related certifications. As an attorney with over ten years of experience working with AI and machine learning in litigation, Kassi's career has been motivated by always being curious and following technology innovations. In addition to a growing collection of publications on topics related to AI, Kassi is actively engaged in thought leadership through her two podcasts, Kassi & ... and Bui & Burns Take Five, both centered on the impact of disruptive tech to our professional and personal lives. Kassi is an executive board member of the Academy of Court-Appointed Neutrals and Women in Cybersecurity Policy and Law

Affiliate, and a recently appointed member of Relativity's Attorney Advisory Board. She is also an active member of various legal organizations, where she enthusiastically advocates for emerging tech awareness and education.

Cat Casey is chief growth officer at Reveal Brainspace, helping lead innovation for legal technology solutions, and a zealous advocate for AI in legal. She is a thought leader and outspoken advocate of legal professionals embracing technology to deliver better legal outcomes. She has two decades of experience assisting clients with complex eDiscovery and forensic needs that arise from litigation, expansive regulation, and complex contractual relationships. Cat is a published author, keynote speaker, podcaster, and all-around advocate for upskilling legal professionals facing the dawn of an AI renaissance in law.

Elina Cohen is a legal business leader with extensive experience in privacy, financial services, Fintech, healthcare and machine learning/artificial intelligence. Elina serves as general counsel, and has spent the majority of her career in-house within technology oriented organizations. A true generalist, with a deep focus on privacy, intellectual property, licensing, and global commercial law, she has previously led dedicated commercial legal teams for global organizations and has also served as privacy officer in a Healthtech organization. Her favorite part in any role is navigating complex legal issues, assisting product and strategy teams to solve business needs, and creating cross-functional teaching opportunities. Elina started her career in the compliance space, working at KMPG to support regulatory teams and initiatives within global banks. From there, focusing on privacy in the technology sector was a natural transition.

Daniel Cotter is a member at Dickinson Wright PLLC in its Chicago office. Daniel has a BA in Accounting from Monmouth College, magna cum laude, and a JD from the University of Illinois Chicago School of Law. Daniel's practice encompasses a range of roles, including a pivotal tenure as general counsel for a major life insurance company and extensive private practice experience. His clientele spans insurance firms, financial institutions, IT/consulting enterprises, and nonprofits. Since 1996, Dan has been deeply involved in privacy and cybersecurity matters, notably contributing to the formulation of terms and conditions as well as disclaimers for Fortune 500 websites in the late 1990s. His roles as a chief privacy officer across various companies and law firms underscore his depth in these evolving domains. Dan is a frequent writer and speaker on a variety of topics, including legal operations, and is a former adjunct professor.

Jeff Cunningham is an attorney defending lawyers and serving as outside general counsel for small to mid-sized law firms. Jeff's practice covers a broad range of areas including professional liability, ethics, civil litigation, malpractice claims, and more. Jeff focuses on the risk management and professional ethics involved in legal operations and views the development of legal AI as powerful tools to help lawyers with better and safer practice. Jeff is a self-described "reluctant social media thought leader", sharing his thoughts on legal ethics to over 26,000 followers and authoring a popular weekly newsletter and daily blog. His commitment to education is evident in his frequent presentations on law firm risk management and ethics.

Tom Dunlop is the founder and CEO of Summize. Initially starting out as a contract summary solution to instantly extract key metadata from documents, Summize's capabilities soon expanded to span the end-to-end contract life cycle, receiving rave reviews from clients due to its intuitive user experience and innovative features. As an accomplished commercial and technology lawyer, Tom's experience with reviewing contracts was the catalyst that led to Summize. Prior to this, he worked as a global legal director for several fast-growth technology companies.

Tara Emory is senior vice president of legal AI strategy and general counsel at Redgrave Data. She is an experienced legal technology consultant and lawyer, with a focus on guiding legal teams on efficient and compliant uses of artificial intelligence. Her expertise bridges the areas of law, data compliance, and technical aspects of data and software. Her work includes consulting on legal AI applications, e-discovery and information governance, and serving as an expert witness and court-appointed neutral on discovery issues. Tara is Chambers ranked Band 1 for litigation support, serves in leadership roles in The Sedona Conference and other industry groups, and admitted to practice in DC, NY, and VA.

Caroline Francescato is a Brazilian lawyer and entrepreneur and the founder of LinkLei, a LegalTech platform with over 23,000 users. As a law, technology, and innovation professor, she has shared insights at over 50 institutions across Brazil, emphasizing the integration of technology in the legal field. Caroline's influence extends to curating and spearheading events like the Legal Innovation Experience, drawing around 500 attendees for profound discussions on the future of law. Her mentoring experience includes guiding start-ups in the Founder Institute program, Porto Alegre chapter. With a legal background and a passion for tech-driven legal solutions, Caroline stands at the forefront of reshaping the legal landscape.

Stephanie Goutos is a practice innovation attorney at Gunderson Dettmer, where she leads the strategic innovation and knowledge management initiatives for the firm's employment and labor practice. Her accolades include successfully defending multi-state class actions and leading the implementation of legal technology solutions that have revolutionized firm-wide processes. With her background in class action defense, litigation, and employment counseling, Stephanie bridges her traditional legal expertise with an unyielding passion for forward-thinking innovation strategies. In doing so, she offers a uniquely holistic approach to problem-solving, providing exceptional value to stakeholders. Stephanie is passionate about driving transformative change and achieving tangible outcomes, with a strong focus on fostering innovation across organizations. Her passion extends to enhancing access to justice and promoting inclusivity within the legal sector. She is dedicated to mentoring women and encouraging their active involvement in legal technology, aiming to create a more diverse and equitable industry.

Robert Hanna, founder and managing director of KC Partners, is a leading figure in global legal talent solutions and content creation. He's renowned for guiding legal professionals in achieving their career aspirations across various international regions. As a prominent legal recruiter, Rob is recognized as a LinkedIn Top Voice and is influential in shaping digital recruitment strategies. Robert hosts the critically acclaimed "Legally Speaking" podcast, powered by legal tech pioneer Clio, ranking in the top one percent of global podcasts and integrating innovative Web3 technologies. Rob's entrepreneurial expertise extends beyond podcasting – he advises recruitment and LegalTech start-ups and contributes to bestselling legal texts. Additionally, he is a sought-after speaker. A passionate advocate for mental health, diversity, and inclusion, Rob actively collaborates with high-profile legal organizations such as The Law Society of England and Wales and the Society of Asian Lawyers, as well as non-profits like NRG Lawyers. He supports initiatives that bridge the metaverse and the mainstream. Proudly continuing his grandfather's legacy in law, Rob combines professional excellence with a commitment to building a kinder, more collaborative community.

Viveca Hess helps time-starved lawyers and law firms to build and strategically position what makes them unique into their online presence to connect with qualified clients and high-quality referral networks. She is the founder of HessConnect, which specializes in strategic online content marketing and management, connecting people online to create business offline by creating, sharing, and humanizing business stories for meaningful results.

Suzi Hixon, a distinguished trademark attorney, brings over two decades of intellectual property expertise to the legal field. Her career, marked by managing trademark portfolios for both Fortune 100 corporations and dynamic start-ups, showcases her versatility and depth of knowledge. Suzi's passion extends beyond traditional practice – she is a celebrated educator in legal complexities, making her a sought-after figure in various media outlets like Legally Speaking, Lawyer Stories, LawHer, and several notable podcasts including AM/PM Podcast, Private Label University, Jungle Scout, and Web Retailer. Her exceptional ability to simplify intricate legal matters has earned her widespread acclaim from clients and peers. Suzi's entrepreneurial drive is a testament to her innovative spirit, constantly seeking new methodologies to tackle complex legal challenges. Her commitment to excellence and relentless work ethic are not just the hallmarks of her professional journey, but also an inspiration to those in the legal community.

Amr Jayousi advises banks and commercial lenders on a broad range of debt-financing corporate transactions. He handles a wide range of financing models and structures, including secured and unsecured lending, syndicated and bilateral loans, and bridge and mezzanine financings, and is experienced in debt transactions in various contexts including acquisition finance, project finance, and cross-border and highly leveraged lending transactions.

Laura Jeffords Greenberg is an in-house legal executive who has carved a niche advising disruptive companies and scaling international legal teams with innovative technologies. With over 14 years' experience, she's been at the forefront of emerging technologies and legal change, guiding teams at a variety of companies from start-ups to globally recognized brands such as Red

Bull and Unity Technologies in the tech, media, and sports industries. She believes in leveraging generative AI to shape the future of legal services, making her a key player in legal tech innovation. Laura is a seasoned keynote speaker and author of the “Chatting Contracts with GPT” column for Contract Nerds. Her expertise in transforming complex legal challenges into streamlined solutions has established her as a leader in driving technological advancement in the legal sector. Laura is a California-licensed attorney who has honed her expertise in Los Angeles, New York, and Salzburg, and currently resides with her family in Copenhagen. With an eye on the horizon, she continues innovating at the intersection of law and cutting-edge technology.

Jeffery A. Kruse is the founder of Key Legal Operations Consulting LLC (KLOC). Jeff helps legal teams operate more efficiently through change management, process improvements, automation, and technology solutions to allow them to do what they do best. Prior to founding KLOC, Jeff was a partner at two respected law firms in Kansas City and spent nearly ten years in various in-house counsel roles at Boston Scientific Corporation. While at Boston Scientific, Jeff was a chief litigation officer and supervised 13 legal professionals responsible for legal operations continuous improvement projects, managing litigation, and handling e-discovery.

Monika Kwiatkowska (PhD, CIPP/E) is a senior commercial counsel at Zscaler, Inc, based in London. She holds a PhD in Law from University of Nice Sophia Antipolis in France and is currently undergoing solicitor qualification in the UK. Monika has experience working across multiple jurisdictions, with primary focus on privacy, new technologies, and intellectual property. As part of several in-house legal teams, she has gained expertise in advising on legal aspects of various types of commercial transactions. She has a record of successful negotiation of commercial contracts ranging from software/SaaS licensing to data protection, professional services, and distribution agreements. Originally from Warsaw, Monika lived for several years in southern France before moving to the UK almost a decade ago.

Colin S. Levy is an accomplished author and editor in the legal technology space. At Malbek, a leading CLM company, Colin serves as director of legal and evangelist, playing a lead role developing legal tech. He contributed to the first-ever guide to effective legal document drafting using Word. Colin is known for conversations with legal industry leaders that he shares online to educate on legal tech trends. He actively contributes his writing and speaking to the legal tech field, co-authoring articles, writing for publications, and participating in podcasts. Colin's guidance and expertise is frequently sought, given his hands-on experience and passion for innovation. Colin aims to engage and motivate professionals shaping the future of legal tech through his writing, speaking, and advisory work.

Paul Levy is a senior consultant at Jameson Legal Tech and has been in the legal space since 2008, when he joined Practical Law Company, subsequently acquired by Thomson Reuters. He has been working with innovation teams at Magic Circle, Silver Circle, and Top 200 UK law firms as well as AM Law 100 firms and other top international firms for over 16 years and has gained an understanding of the various challenges law firms have and how technology can help improve client experiences. Paul is now helping innovation teams at law firms and in-house teams to find the right people to help drive their legal tech transformation and innovation strategies.

John Lindsey is a tech entrepreneur and the president of InCite LegalTech, a software solutions and consulting firm dedicated to assisting law firms with digital transformation. With a wealth of experience in starting and leading companies, John has a track record of innovation and growth within the technology and legal sectors. Under his leadership, InCite LegalTech has become a driving force in modernizing legal practices, leveraging cutting-edge technology to enhance efficiency and client service. John's vision for InCite LegalTech is not just about implementing software solutions – it is about fostering a culture of continuous improvement and strategic foresight. His approach has cemented InCite LegalTech's reputation as a pioneer in the legal tech space, with a focus on sustainable, long-term digital strategies that deliver results.

Wilzette Louis is director of Client Solutions at Redgrave Data. She holds a BS from the New York Institute of Technology. She is a Certified E-Discovery Specialist (CEDS) with expertise in Relativity, where she is certified as an administrator, management specialist, and analytics specialist. Additionally, Wilzette is a Brainspace certified analyst, administrator, and specialist. Her proficiency extends to Reveal AI. She specialized in e-discovery project management and consulting for over 20 years. Wilzette has led teams on complex matters across diverse industries. Leveraging her deep expertise in analytical and review tools, she advises client teams on optimizing efficiency within strict budget and timeline constraints. She designed and implemented workflows to streamline e-discovery reviews, TAR, case management, and procedures. Wilzette actively participates in quality assurance, guiding developers to align solutions with client needs. She has successfully created seamless system integrations and dataflows supporting overall business objectives.

Navin Mahavijayan is the “dark lord of contracts” and head of legal operations at Modernizing Medicine, a former attorney with a passion for technology and a penchant for all things geeky. Bearing a depth of knowledge in commercial contracts, drafting, negotiation and management, he has spent the last two decades dealing with contracts across the globe. Navin has led legal services teams and legal technology implementation teams. He has also personally implemented over 50 legal operations technology projects. Additionally, Navin’s experience spans working in-house, with legal technology vendors, alternative legal service providers, and as a consultant, giving him a robust and holistic view of legal operations.

Owen McGrann is the resident troublemaker at McGrannLAW LLC and Seed Counsel. Owen has dedicated a significant amount of effort to move the profession past the Jarndyce v. Jarndyce model of practice and spends his time plotting with clients and devising ways to make his law firm feel nothing like a law firm – for both his and his clients’ benefit.

Gary Miles has been practicing law for more than four decades, primarily in litigation and, more recently, in family law. He was the managing member of Huesman, Jones, and Miles in Maryland for over three decades and is now of counsel to the firm. He has been a trial lawyer, managing partner, author, leader, and entrepreneur. He loves helping folks solve their problems. He is passionate about showing people how to free themselves from the prisons that entrap them. He has seen the pressures we face in the legal profession. He is dedicated to helping his clients achieve fulfilment in their practice. He provides practical tools to help his clients overcome obstacles, freeing them to enjoy the success and freedom they crave. Gary has a popular and highly rated podcast, The Free Lawyer, dedicated to helping lawyers, entrepreneurs, and professionals become the successful person they always wanted to be and achieve the success of their dreams, with two episodes every week. He loves supporting lawyers and lifting the legal profession.

Tanisha Minev is a commercial lawyer based in Amsterdam, currently serving as legal counsel for Yoco, a South African Fintech scale-up. She holds a Bachelor of Laws (LLB) degree from South Africa. With eight years of experience in globally recognized institutions, she specializes in corporate law, commercial contract negotiation, and legal operations. Tanisha is dedicated to process improvement, implementing lean principles, and leveraging technology for efficient legal management. She has helped legal teams scale sustainably, by mapping standardized process flows and implementing automated solutions, with a view to increasing productivity to support cross-collaboration and reduce waste, so that in-house legal teams can better spend their time on their strategic goals in supporting their stakeholders.

Niti Nadarajah is a multi-award-winning coach, freelance general counsel, DEI consultant, facilitator, and speaker, who advocates for a range of issues including gender and racial equity. Through her business, Coaching by Niti, she empowers women who are feeling stuck in their careers to get unstuck by connecting them to their inner compass. With over 20 years of experience as a corporate lawyer, having worked both in-house as the head of a legal department and for major law firms in Melbourne, Sydney, and London, she also helps the legal profession create real sustainable change where DEI is concerned. Alongside her many roles as coach, consultant, mentor, and angel investor, Niti also volunteers her time with The Pink Elephants Support Network. She was recognized as a LinkedIn Top Voice (Gender Equity) in 2022 and was recently awarded Social Changemaker of the Year – Gender (Bronze) at the Stevie Awards 2023, among other accolades.

Cathy Nestrick is the vice president of women's leadership and DEI at the American Bankers Association, where she provides guidance, thought leadership, and resources for the banking and financial services industry. Cathy came to ABA after she transitioned from a legal career, first as a law partner in a Midwest firm where she represented banks and other businesses, and later as the vice president and general counsel of a global manufacturing company where she also founded the first office of diversity and inclusion. She received a bachelor's degree in economics from Hanover College, a law degree from Indiana University, and an Executive Certificate in Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion from Georgetown University. Cathy co-founded the Parity Podcast focused on the equitable advancement of women. She is a frequent speaker and workshop facilitator on women's leadership, allyship, and inclusive workplace cultures.

Flo Nicolas is the founder and chief data and innovation strategist at Get Tech Smart, where she assists organizations in utilizing data analytics for project assessment to ensure project outcomes. Flo passionately advocates for diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) initiatives. Notably, she co-hosted ContractsCon Miami, a globally recognized contracts drafting and negotiating training conference, and collaborates with the legal community in New Hampshire for the 1L Diversity Internship Program. Beyond her tech and DEI prowess, Flo's expertise is acknowledged globally. As an alumna of the LinkedIn Accelerator Program: Technology and Innovation, she created innovative tech content spotlighting diverse women in technology and legal tech worldwide. Flo's impactful work has garnered recognition, including the NH Business Review Outstanding Women in Business 2023 award, the NH Tech Alliance Tech Professional of the Year 2023 title, and being honored as an Honoree of the American Bar Association Women of Legal Tech 2023. Adding to her list of accolades, she was named to the 2024 New Hampshire 200 list, a unique group of leaders who have left a lasting impact on the state's economy and business climate. Her dedication extends to philanthropy, mentoring underrepresented tech and legal professionals, and hosting DEI Networking events in New Hampshire, showcasing her commitment to positive change.

Natalie Pierce is a Gunderson Dettmer partner and chair of the employment and labor group. She focuses on the needs of emerging companies, venture capital, and growth equity firms. She also focuses on the future of work, including counseling companies on incorporation of generative artificial intelligence and other technologies. Natalie hosts Gunderson's FutureWork Playbook podcast and was selected as a Fast Case 50 Award Winner, one of Daily Journal's "Top Artificial Intelligence Lawyers" and "Top Labor and Employment Lawyers," Chambers USA's "Minority Lawyer of the Year," American Lawyer's "Best Mentor," San Francisco Business Times's "Bay Area's Most Influential Women," and was a member of the Governing Council of the ABA's Center for Innovation. Natalie earned her BA at UC Berkeley with Honors and law degree from Columbia University School of Law, where she was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar and recipient of the Emil Schlesinger Labor Law Prize at graduation.

Adam Poeppelmeier is director of e-discovery at Redgrave Data. Adam draws from 20 years of experience managing client portfolios, large complex e-discovery projects, and providing focused business intelligence concerning alternative fee matters and the analysis of historical matters for future litigation projections. At Redgrave Data, Adam provides oversight and consulting on e-discovery services, discovery playbook design, the defensible use of TAR and other advanced technology in complex regulatory requests, investigations, and litigation, as well as advises clients on how to effectively harness AI models, enabling them to identify the most suitable use-cases. Leveraging his acumen in business intelligence, he empowers clients to leverage data for identifying and monitoring key metrics that yield valuable insights into their legal matters and technological initiatives. By doing so, Adam drives tangible cost savings and efficiency gains for his clients.

Brewster Rawls is the founder of Rawls Law Group in Richmond, Virginia. After graduating from Wake Forest University, Brewster served as an artillery officer in the US army. He went to law school at the University of Richmond, graduating in 1984. His entire legal career has been as a trial lawyer, including trying well over 100 medical malpractice jury trials in Virginia. Since 1999, Brewster has also handled close to a thousand Federal Tort Claims Act cases nationwide relating to government healthcare providers. Brewster has been recognized by Best Lawyers, Super Lawyers, and other groups. He has multiple publications and is frequently invited to speak at conferences and CLE events. Brewster is especially well-known for his daily posts on LinkedIn addressing the practice of law and life in general.

Chitra Sahay is an in-house lawyer deeply entrenched within Mumbai's dynamic media and entertainment sector. With a profound understanding of the intricate nuances of intellectual property, she advocates for its strategic consolidation to seamlessly align with corporate objectives while fostering distinctive market identities. From esteemed multinational corporations to promising start-ups, she prioritizes tailored IP processes that safeguard creative endeavors, mitigate risks, and fortify strategic positions. Through collaborative dialogue and meticulous attention to detail, Chitra empowers legal operations leaders to uphold the integrity of IP assets, ensuring sustained protection and competitive advantage.

Dr Maryam Salehijam is a client account executive at Axiom Law with over 13 years' experience in the legal field. Specializing in connecting top legal talent with diverse teams, she holds a PhD in International Business Law, focusing on dispute resolution and legal research. Maryam's expertise builds lasting client–candidate relationships, drawing from her academic career with 13 publications and a Routledge-published book on mediation and commercial contract law. Beyond academia, she mentors start-ups, emphasizing innovation, policy, and education.

Jenna Sanz-Agero is a broad-based business advisor and legal and operations strategist, helping companies scale by doing more with less. Jenna holds degrees in law and finance and has practiced law for over 25 years, specializing in the entertainment, media, and technology space. Jenna is of counsel to boutique entertainment law firm, Business Affairs, Inc., and currently serves on the Advisory Board of xMentium, Inc., providing strategic planning and advice in the entertainment industry for this global tech company's language collaboration platform. Jenna joined xMentium following her three years as the initial head of strategic knowledge management at Netflix, where she spearheaded KM programs for a global team of over 900 legal professionals. Prior to joining Netflix, Jenna led operations and business affairs while serving as COO for The H Collective, a media start-up with offices in Los Angeles and mainland China.

Yavanika Shah serves as a legal business specialist, currently at the helm of business initiatives in the Southern Region (Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai) for IndusLaw, a prominent Indian law firm boasting a team of over 450 lawyers and over 70 partners across major cities. Her role is pivotal in shaping the firm's approach to the business of law. Beginning her career as a commercial lawyer in New Delhi, Yavanika gravitated towards the business aspects of law. This led her to transition into management consulting, where she collaborated with diverse legal markets globally, contributing her legal insights to international ventures. With an MBA in International Business Management and a background in economics and international law, Yavanika is not just a seasoned legal professional but also served as editor in chief of her law school's flagship law journal. Her contributions to academia and participation in conferences underscore her dedication to thought leadership.

Ruslan Sulaimanov is a US qualified attorney-at-law currently practicing in the United Arab Emirates for more than eight years. He is focused primarily on cross-border mergers and acquisitions, venture capital financing, and corporate transactions. He worked at King & Spalding, an American international law firm in Dubai (while covering the wider Middle East) prior to joining the headquarters of Abu Dhabi National Oil Company Group, one of the leading energy corporations, where he advises business on major acquisitions, divestments, and joint ventures, working on high-value transactions alongside other legal practitioners from major BigLaw and Magic Circle law firms. His educational background comprises a double major degree (BBA and LLB) from the American University of Central Asia, LLM degree from the Central European University and summer executive education programs from Stanford Law School, Berkeley Law School, and the Hague Academy of International Law.

Jake Sussman is the co-founder and chief operating and product officer of Evisort. Prior to Evisort, he worked at the Boston Consulting Group and Simpson Thacher & Bartlett. He was a member of the Forbes 30 Under 30 list, and he received his JD from Harvard Law School and a Bachelor of Science degree from Rutgers University.

Son Tran is general counsel and chief legal advisor of TTC Group, a leading multi-sector group of companies in Vietnam. His legal professional career has included legal practices in technology, real estate, corporate, investment banking, IP, and competition law. Son holds degrees in law and economics, an MBA in International Business from the Shidler School of Business at University of Hawaii, a BA in International Economics from Foreign Trade University, and a BA in Applied Linguistics at Ho Chi Minh Open University. He is a graduate at law school of Ho Chi Minh City and Swinburn Uni, a qualified lawyer, and a member of Ho Chi Minh City Bar Association.

Tara Trantham is an experienced, detail-oriented corporate lawyer with excellent litigation and management skills and is a driven team leader. Having over 23 years of experience, Tara is an expert in the financial services industry and specializes in regulatory compliance and risk management, SEC reporting, KYC compliance, ESG compliance, mergers and acquisitions, and licensing issues. Her expertise led to her handling the seminal CID from the CFPB in the installment loan industry, resulting in a no finding. In February 2022, Tara founded her own fractional general counsel company, Rise Legal Team. She is a member of the Georgia Bar, the American Bar Association, and has served on the Board of Directors for American Financial Services Association, and on the Law Committee of the American Financial Services Association (AFSA). She also served as chair of the State and Government Affairs Committee with AFSA.

Sana Virani is a lawyer based in the West-Central region of India, specializing in providing legal solutions through contracts, catering primarily to founders and entrepreneurs. Beyond the legal realm, Sana is a versatile individual with diverse interests. Her proficiency in legal operations complements her skill in dealing with a broad spectrum of clients. A passionate writer, Sana demystifies legal complexities and makes law accessible to a wider audience.