

Table of contents

I. Introduction

1. Careers as a lawyer
2. And why they must be managed – by you!
3. The importance of planning and phasing
4. Skills you will need
5. And those to discard as you go on

II. Moving in-house

1. Why?
2. Is it for you?
3. No longer a one-way street
4. What makes it different?
5. Becoming a business person first
6. Adapting to the culture
7. When is the right time?
 - a. Junior to mid-level
 - b. Don't leave it too late
 - c. Although going in at GC level is possible, how easy is it?

8. Going back to private practice
9. Diversity and inclusion
10. What in-house can lead to

III. Learning about other functions

1. Recreating an MBA experience on the job – or doing an MBA. What is going to be of interest and useful to you?
Exploring the range of business issues:
 - a. Leadership
 - b. Change management
 - c. Economics and finance
 - d. Strategy
 - e. Marketing
 - f. Operations
 - g. People management

IV. Effective skills for the in-house lawyer

1. Managing and delegating
2. Developing your team
3. Less law the more senior you become
4. Listening
5. Listening again!
6. Advising – being a trusted adviser
7. Moving upwards

V. The lawyer as coach and mentor

1. Why these are great skills and attributes
2. What's the difference between the two?
3. Mentoring your team
4. Coaching
 - a. Coaching upwards and downwards
 - b. Becoming an internal coach
 - c. Training to be an external one
 - d. Building a separate career
 - e. Using coaching in all the work you do

VI. Developing your career away from law (law firm)

1. Taking on a management or support role in a law firm
2. PSFs
3. Heads of L&D/HRD
4. Other roles

VII. Developing your career away from law (in-house)

1. Serving on ExCo
2. Taking on the company secretary role
3. Some other options:
 - Head of risk
 - Compliance director
 - HRD
4. Going into the business
5. Becoming CEO!
6. Leaving business

VIII. Developing your career after law

1. Plan early
2. And don't leave it too late
3. Re-designing your CV
 - a. Why it needs to be very different
 - b. Transferable skills and experience
4. Getting help
 - a. Career transition coaches
 - b. Mentors
 - c. Outplacement
 - d. Why you should read Peter Drucker
5. Becoming a non-executive director
 - a. What precisely do they do?
 - b. Beware boards don't like lawyers – current or former
 - c. What it takes
 - d. What does it entail?
 - e. Make sure you want to do it
 - f. Which sector?

g. And how many roles?

h. Getting help

IX. Conclusion and practical checklist